

Teburu SDK Agreement

By accepting the following general terms and conditions regarding the use of the documentation contained herein (hereinafter, the "Documentation"), the user (hereinafter, the "User") expressly declares:

1. to be aware and fully understand that the Documentation, as well as any of its content, is full and exclusive property of Xplored;
2. to be aware and fully understand that the access to the Documentation, as well as to any of its content, is strictly confidential;
3. to be aware and fully understand that the Documentation, as well as any of its content, is made available to the User for consultation purposes only, that the Documentation, as well as any of its content, is strictly confidential and, consequently, any disclosure thereof, in any form and by any mean, constitutes an expressly forbidden operation;
4. to be aware and fully understand that the access to the Documentation, as well as to any of its content, does not constitute a form of license to the Documentation itself, to Xplored's products, or to the related technology;
5. to be aware and fully understand that any commercial use (and, in general, any use other than a strictly amateur purpose) of the Documentation, as well as of any of its content, constitutes an expressly forbidden operation;
6. to be aware and fully understand that any violation of the above general terms and conditions of use will result in the liability towards Xplored by the User, that will therefore be required to indemnify and hold Xplored harmless from any damaging consequences, both patrimonial and non-patrimonial, arising to Xplored from said violation.

Should the User intend to propose a commercial project based on the Documentation and its contents, it may contact Xplored using the following contact information: pitch@xplored.com.